

SCORES ARE INJURED IN THE COLLAPSE OF NEW YORK SUBWAY

Chief Kelson, who immediately took charge of operations.

The police soon discovered that the scores were in danger of falling into the city.

Officers rushed into all the structures to find the occupants and drive out the scores.

From one building alone 3,000 girls rushed into the street, many shouting their rage and hate in their tears.

The situation met by the police and firemen was rendered more serious by the falling of a huge water main broke, the water pouring down into the excavation.

STREET GOES DOWN.

With a roar that could be heard more than a mile away, from building line to building line, the street was excavated. The first theory of the police was that a blast had exploded out one or more beams that supported the shoring of the new subway.

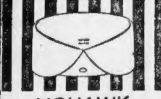

A great cloud of dust settled down over the neighborhood, but the work of rescue was begun immediately.

CALL AMBULANCES.

The collapse occurred at 338 & 340. While the minutes click were sent to all hospitals in New York to send their ambulances in the scene. Efforts to carry the victims were quick.

Police reserves of five companies were summoned and a special unit of men to help in the rescue work.

By 3:30 about 200 police had reached the scene and thrown a cordon about the entire block. Nearly 150 firemen arrived and were stationed at different points by fire

Two of the injured—a man and a woman—were taken to the office of the National Clock and Suit Company had been while the physicians were working over them.

The second floor of the building occupied by this company was turned into a temporary hospital.

Physicians and surgeons took up their stations there and saved for the injured while the physicians were working over them.

Walsh to Give Best Efforts for Campaign

Governor Walsh gives out the following statement:

"The thought that came as I have learned the result of the primary election inspires further upon me the great debt of gratitude and the continued serious responsibility I owe the voters of Massachusetts. The manifestation of the confidence and loyalty upon the part of my own political party, expressed at the polls, affects me deeply.

"I interpret it not only as an endorsement of my administration, but even more as an approval of what I have earnestly striven to do with the power and authority delegated to me by the people of Massachusetts in promoting and advancing their welfare and happiness.

"The call which the Democratic party has made upon me again will be answered by giving my strength and talent cheerfully and unflinchingly to its service.

"I shall work as in the past for the living of the people, the advancement and progressive principles, most enthusiastically recorded, in the past, and which I am proud to have been a part of in the past.

REASON FOR EXPULSION.

The witness declared he voted in favor of the resolution for the resignation of Dr. Richards. He said he was influenced by the fact that the committee made by the doctor against a member of the association and the fact that the doctor had been expelled from the association.

CHURCHES USED.

Chapman Edward E. McCall of the Public Service Commission hurried to the scene and began an investigation of the accident. Governor Pendergast arrived shortly afterward, while the injured were still being carried from the scene.

But Few Voters Spoiled Ballot by Wrong Marks

The Election Commissioners announced today that comparatively few voters spoiled out of their own volition. The results of the election were as follows:

For the election of the members of the House of Representatives, the results were as follows:

For the election of the members of the Senate, the results were as follows:

Leaps to Death as Submarine Warning Comes

The Leyland liner Bohemian arrived from Liverpool today with news of the suicide off the coast of Ireland of a hostler who shipped under the name of Louis P. Ellis of No. 62 Jefferson Avenue, Chelsea.

He was thirty-three years old. It is thought that Ellis jumped overboard.

Ellis disappeared the night of September 13. On that day the Bohemian's wireless operator received a warning message that a submarine was off Tampa on the south coast of Ireland. Two hours later the Bohemian passed that stretch of water unharmed, with no submarine appearing.

NEW BEDFORD, Sept. 22.—Today's session of the convention of the State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, which was expected to conclude with the election of officers, was frustrated by the introduction of a resolution dealing with the problem of the unemployed.

G. Harry Brown, former supervisor of loan agencies, strongly supported the measure, which provided a $1 a day minimum wage for any unemployed man who seeks work.

RYAN MEETS WITH PRESIDENT AT CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—For the first time since he relinquished his post as premier of the cabinet, William Jennings Bryan visited the White House today. He was closeted with President Wilson for nearly an hour, and officials generally regarded the meeting as one of the most important since the President assumed office, because of the political fortunes.

Bryan insisted, however, that there was no significance in his call, but that he had "simply paid his respects" to the President.

Secretary Taft took the same view although he took pains to emphasize the friendly relations he declared existed between the two men.

ANOTHER ARREST TO BE MADE IN 'FARO' CASE

Following the holding of the Crownshill brothers, Arthur J. and Albert H., on charges of assault and battery on George B. Oser of No. 313 Huntington avenue and of attempted larceny, by an alleged "fake" faro game, of $10,000 from Herbert Smith of Winchester, the police of Court square station today sought people who, they say, may have been victims of alleged "fake" faro methods. Captain Sullivan of Court square station sent Patrolman Van Lanning, who arrested the Crownshills, out today in quest of people who might give more information to the police.

COOL WEATHER AFTER STORM DAMAGE

Fair and cooler weather came today after a rainfall of .53 inch. Considerable damage was done about Boston by the storm, particularly in Malden, Arlington and Lexington. The rain brought a tinge of fall weather into the air in sharp contrast to the recent hot spell.

Cellars were flooded in Malden and several streets were washed out. At Eastern avenue and Linwood street the water was deep enough to float a sailboat.

A big auto delivery truck owned by John Joseph of Pleasant street went into a hole in the roadway washed out by the storm and hidden from the driver's view by the blinding rain. The machine was not much damaged because it was moving slowly at the time, but its extrication from the hole was a difficult matter.

Lexington and Arlington were flooded by the downpour of rain and the street railway service on the Middlesex and Boston Elevated roads was delayed for some time by the water, which was nearly a foot deep.

At Arlington, Mass., the street was flooded so deep that the water flowed over the sidewalks and ran into the elevated car barn. Passengers transferring from the elevated cars to Lexington, Bedford, Concord and Lowell electric were obliged to wade through water over their ankles.

At Sylvia street, East Lexington, and in other low sections, Massachusetts avenue was flooded and water rose above the first step on the electric cars. Water washing down the sidewalks washed out a number of the streets and the highway departments of Lexington and Arlington were called out.

Cabinet Shake-Up

MOSCOW, Sept. 22.—At the meeting of the Zemstvo Congress and municipal representatives in Tschelchikoff, Mayor of Moscow, said all were agreed the war must be carried to a victorious conclusion, but to this end the reconstruction of the Duma and the reconstruction of the Cabinet were vitally necessary. Resolutions to this effect will be presented to Emperor Nicholas.

AUSTIN W. SCOTT TAKES UP DUTIES AS ACTING DEAN

Austin Wakeman Scott.

Austin W. Scott today assumed his duties as acting dean of the Harvard Law School, to which position he was appointed yesterday, to succeed the late Dean E. B. Thayer.

The new dean is but six years out of law school and is said to be the youngest man ever to such a high administrative position in Harvard University.

Dean Scott is a graduate of Harvard, 1902, and Harvard Law School '05. While a student at Harvard Law School his ability attracted attention and on his graduation he was made an instructor in Pleading and Equity.

A year later he was appointed an assistant professor and last year he was made a full professor.

This is Dean Scott's second deanship, as he served as dean of the law school of the University of Iowa for a year.

FORD TO DESIGN SUBMARINE ENGINE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Henry Ford, automobile manufacturer, today promised to design a perfect engine for the use of the submarines and aeroplanes of the United States army and navy.

The announcement was made, following a conference between Ford and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, that all the talk dealing with engine plants of the navy which has been completed will be turned over to Ford to work out a solution. He will go to New York this afternoon, and Captain Grant, in command of the submarine squadron, will show him how the motors of the submarines work.

Ford will later return to Detroit, and with the practical knowledge and the scientific data will try to design an engine that will be superior to any now in existence.

Police Now Certain Stone Was Suicide

WORCESTER, Sept. 22.—The police here announced today that the mystery of the death of Charles A. Stone, well-known local contractor whose body was found a week ago at West Boylston, had been cleared up. They have found the revolver in the case, and declared that Stone was undoubtedly a suicide.

No attempt was made, as far as known, to take finger prints from the marks of fingers on the rifle.

$500 IS OFFERED FOR SLAYER OF HOLYOKE GIRL

HOLYOKE, Sept. 22.—Five hundred dollars reward is offered today for the arrest of the degenerate slayer of five-year-old Lillian May, following a vote taken by the Board of Aldermen.

Several prominent citizens have called upon Mayor John H. Woods and informed him they would like to add to the reward. Others telephoned to the same effect. It is estimated that over 4,000 people have visited the block during the past week.

The police continued their "comb" of the city today. Suspects have been brought to the station and grilled at the rate of about one an hour. No clue is known to have been obtained.

No attempt was made, as far as known, to take finger prints from the marks of fingers on the rifle.

threat observed when the body was found. The use of bloodhounds at the inquest was to the credit of people that have visited the scene of the murder.

The funeral of the little girl was held yesterday and was largely attended. A whole carload of floral tributes indicated in a measure the public sympathy.

Eliminate Villa as a Real Factor in Mexico Crisis

By LAWRENCE TODD,
Staff Correspondent of the Herald News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Complete elimination of General Francisco Villa as a distinct factor in Mexican affairs was indicated today by official advice to the State Department.

Villa is abandoning, seemingly without a struggle, the entire State of Chihuahua, the richest territory in his possession, to the strong Carranza army of General Obregon.

Practically his entire army already has passed through Juarez enroute for Sonora, where Villa's sole remaining strong adherent, General Mastorena, is still in control.

The El Paso representatives of the State Department say they have accounted for practically all of Villa's army in 15 train loads of troops that have passed through Juarez.

ECZEMA ON BABY'S FACE HEAD

And Neck. Mass of Eruption.
Very Itching. Would Spread.
All Hair Fell Out.

HEALED BY CUTICURA SOAP AND OINTMENT

"When my baby was four months old he had eczema. It broke out in little red pimples on his face, head and neck. I thought it was from the heat, but a week after it broke out into a big mass of eruption. It was very itching, and when he would scratch it would spread. All his hair fell out, and he never had a good night while the eczema lasted."

"I was told that Cuticura Soap and Ointment was good for eczema, so I used them. I applied the Cuticura Ointment and washed him with the Cuticura Soap. In three weeks he was all better, he was healed." (Signed) Mrs. Gloria Macdonald, 15 Bristol St., Cambridge, Mass., Jan. 1, 1915.

THE RABBITS' COLUMN

Walter J. Maramba
HOTT STOP OF THE BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 22.—Although Marmorek's position has not yet made any plans for next season, it is almost certain that he and Burns will be members of the first string pitching corps when the 1916 season opens. What these youngsters have done since joining the Braves is hardly a surprise for those who remember that they were both first-round picks of the club.

GOWDY GOES OUT; SNOWGRASS READY

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 22.—The Braves are well up today, with both in a unit tomorrow, though it is not yet certain whether the double header on Forbes Field between the Braves and Phillies. Red says in camp statistics the management direct from the Milwaukee Braves, which he charges must continue the fight for the first division, if such a thing is possible. He is working his best to get the club into the first division, if such a thing is possible. He is working his best to get the club into the first division, if such a thing is possible.

ROOT FOR THE RED SOX

Hard Winter Coming and Sox Bent on Being Prepared

Today's attraction at Fenway Park is a battle between the Red Sox and the Boston Braves. The Sox are bent on being prepared for a hard winter, and the Braves are bent on being prepared for a hard winter. The Sox are bent on being prepared for a hard winter, and the Braves are bent on being prepared for a hard winter.

FANS BUYING FOR OCTOBER GAMES

The cleanup of three games out of four with the Tigers has sent applications for World Series seats piling into the Red Sox offices like an avalanche. There were several hundred letters in each mail today for the fans' have the Cheyenne all decided on for the American League entry. One question that is raised is late is whether the Red Sox would move over to Braves Field for the big clash, if the Sox and Phillies were the contestants. At the Red Sox offices today it was said there was a possibility of this, although the matter had not definitely been taken up between the two clubs. The Braves, of course, will say they may have to use the grounds themselves for World Series purposes.

Can We Afford for Immediate Profit to Inflict Everlasting Injury Upon the World?

At this moment accredited representatives of two of the warring European powers are endeavoring to negotiate in this country a loan of one thousand millions of dollars. This enormous loan is to be used directly and indirectly in prolonging the dreadful war that is wasting the wealth and the strength of the white man's civilization. At this moment, also, the steel mills of the United States are employed day and night in manufacturing arms and munitions of war to make more frightful the wholesale murder which is decimating the white man's race.

We are told by men high in public place that it is our moral right to make all the profit we can by supplying money and weapons and munitions to be used in killing Europe's men and destroying Europe's wealth.

Some of these men, high in public place, see no inconsistency in solemnly praying to Almighty God to bring peace to distressed Europe and in providing, at the same time, the war-mad rulers of Europe with the means to put off making peace for months and possibly years to come. This seems to us an amazing view.

We cannot see how this country, either from a moral or a material viewpoint, can afford to be responsible for the continuance of this European war.

Yet, if we supply Europe with the arms to continue the war and the money to continue the war, we are responsible for the continuance of the war.

There is no possible escape from the logic of that fact. As Mr. Hearst said in his direct appeal to President Wilson, published in the Hearst newspapers August 11:

The plain fact is that the people of this nation are either in favor of peace or they are not.

If they are in favor of peace they should be against war and against the supplying of arms to the nations engaged in a needless, useless, purposeless war, when they know that those arms are to be used to increase the murder and destruction of that war.

If the people of this country are not in favor of peace, then they should continue to supply arms to the murdering nations and make all the money they can out of the murder.

But in that case they should stop prating about peace. We should cease assuming a virtue which we do not possess and go coldly and boldly out to acquire any blood money which may be "coming our way." If we cannot be conscientious, let us at least be consistent.

Every word of that utterance is as forcibly true now as it was then. And every word applies as truthfully and as forcibly to the making of this billion-dollar war loan as it did and does apply to the manufacture of millions of dollars worth of war munitions. The only purpose for which this war loan is sought is to prolong the war and to postpone peace.

Is that a purpose which appeals to the conscience and to the humanity of you citizens?

Is that a purpose which can possibly meet the approval of God, to whom we all pray for peace, for surcease of this awful, horrible, soul-sickening murder and destruction?

Citizens, the high and solemn duty which we owe to ourselves and to mankind is not to make profits by contributing to the woe and waste of the world, not to mint murder into money, not to weigh out to ourselves so many millions of gold and silver as the price of humanity betrayed to its agony and its crucifixion on the cross of war.

The high and solemn duty which we owe to ourselves, to God, to mankind and to the ages to come is to be the active, powerful, effectual mediators and peacemakers of the war-torn and war-weary peoples of desolate and sorrowful Europe.

That, citizens, is a task which we could well address our mightiest energies, well satisfied that we were doing our duty to God and mankind and our high part in the preservation of civilization, now and in the centuries to come.

We are wholly unable to see how good men and good women take any other view of the duties and obligations of our neutral and peaceable nation.

We are wholly unable to see how any of our public men can urge the American people to continue providing still greater sums of money and still larger quantities of arms and munitions to prolong Europe's war.

We are wholly unable to find an explanation of the attitude of the President himself toward this huge war loan that is sought in New York.

Was not Mr. Wilson, in the beginning of the war, opposed to raising war loans in this country to prolong the war? Why has he changed his mind? Is the war any less dreadful, or any less murderous, any less menacing to the civilization of the white race, after this year of hideous slaughter and destruction, than it was in its beginning?

Was there any possible reason for President Wilson's wise and humane opposition to raising war loans in America twelve months ago which is not as forcible, yes, and many times as forcible, now as it was then?

Is peace not a hundred times more desirable in September,

1915, than it was in September, 1914, when as yet no man, even among the military commanders themselves, dreamed of the incredible extremes to which slaughter and waste were to go?

And, citizens, the world can have peace if we do our duty to the world.

Germany wants to make peace and has offered surprisingly liberal terms. Surely the plain people of all the warring nations must desire peace. Peace could be concluded in thirty days on terms fair to all, if the United States would decline to supply arms and money for further conflict.

Citizens, ought we not to do that? Is not peace not only better for humanity, but better for us from a merely selfish point of view than war? Can we afford, from a humanitarian point of view, to be responsible for a war that is destroying the best races in the world and the highest civilization of the world? Can we afford from the most sordid business standpoint to be responsible for a war which is destroying the accumulated wealth of the world?

Wealth is not merely money.

Wealth is the accumulative achievement of the industry and imagination of man throughout the centuries. Wealth is thought embalmed and labor embodied in accomplishment. Wealth is the material products and the intellectual and moral results of thought and work.

All the nations of the world, all the people of the world, share in the wealth of the world. The more wealth is destroyed the less there remains to be divided and communicated. The world's wealth in money and materials, in construction and production, in man-power, in mind-power, in civilization, in sentiment, in enlightenment, in achievement, is being destroyed in enormous quantity daily. The world is suffering and will suffer more and more the further this destruction proceeds.

Shall this nation stimulate this destruction, extend this destruction, contribute to the continuance of this destruction, become morally and actively responsible for the protraction of the war while we are hypocritically demanding peace?

Are we so blind in the pursuit of the immediate dollar that we are regardless or unconscious of the everlasting injury we are inflicting upon the world and upon ourselves? If we want peace, let us make peace. The power is in our hands.

Let us refuse to lend these homicidal maniacs of Europe a dollar until they have recovered from their war mania; until peace has been concluded and declared.

SUFFRAGE BRINGS COMFORT.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir:—Probably the most significant feature in American sanitation today is the almost universal lack of public convenience or comfort stations in American cities and towns," said a prominent Massachusetts man before the American Public Health Association the other day. "Through the influence of the women there have been installed in all our towns and cities drinking fountains, rest rooms and public comfort stations," said the Hon. George F. Young, Mayor of Phoenix, speaking recently on the good effects of equal suffrage in Arizona, while on a visit to the East. He mentioned other good things that the women voters have brought about, and said in summing up: "The men of Arizona gave their opinions, views, states and sweeten the vote with a good round majority. If they had called upon to grant the right of suffrage to women there would have been no

SAVINGS BANK INSURANCE.

Editor BOSTON AMERICAN.

Dear Sir:—I wish that I might express to you my appreciation of the service which the press of Massachusetts has rendered to savings bank life insurance. This movement is entirely for the people's good. Only four or five persons are at work to bring it to the attention of the public and to secure must be in a great measure dependent on the publicity which the newspapers of the State may give. For several years a large proportion of the papers have printed the items which have been sent from time to time, and the growing interest of the people is largely traceable to this fact. "Thinking you for your continued cooperation, I am Very sincerely yours, HARRY W. KIMBALL, Field Secretary, Massachusetts Savings Insurance League.

A Sing Sing Song

Where we used to have to lock them in, now we have to lock them out—Deputy Warden Johnson, of Sing Sing.
UPON a gray old prison wall a warden sat in tears
And listened, here with pity, to the din
Of sundry rough-necked, low-browed men with cauliflower ears,
Who yelled: "You simply gotta let us in."
"The rooms have all been taken, lads," he told them with a sob,
"I hope you will not think I'm doing wrong;
If you come back some other time, and I'm still on the job,
Perhaps I'll not be singing this sad song:

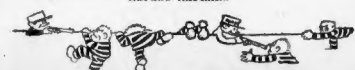

REFRAIN:

"I used to be that all the boys were inside looking out,
But now they're mostly outside looking in.
The standing of the hostelry was formerly in doubt,

The comforts were not what they should have been.
But since we've started movie shows, baseball and tango teas,
With now and then a ten-round boxing bout,
It breaks the yegman's heart when we ask him to depart;
We used to have to lock 'em in, but now we lock 'em out."

SECOND VERSE.

"THE city porch is left unclimbed, the Wall Street safe unbrown,
The blackjack and the gun are cast aside
And crooks and thugs of all degrees beside our portals mean
That prison life they will not be denied.
We'd fain accommodate you all, we know your sterling worth;
We know your standing in the world of crime.
But Sing Sing is a little spot upon a great big earth,
It can't hold all the blacklegs all the time.
REPEAT REFRAIN.
